

VAHE TER NIKOGOSYAN

Vahe Ter Nikogosyan is A2A's Head of Digital & Innovation.

Born in 1970, Vahe is married and has two children. After graduating in Electrical Engineering, he started his career in managerial consultancy at EY, before advancing to positions of increasing responsibility in multinational groups.

From 2005 to 2014, he held the post of SAP Program Director at Fiat Powertrain Technologies and CNH International, in charge of IT system transformation and implementation programmes. Following this, at CNH Industrial, he worked as CIO EMEA and, from 2019, headed the Digital Acceleration programme.

In 2021, he took up the role of Chief Digital Officer at Sidel S.p.A., part of the Tetra Laval International Group, global leader in the packaging sector, and took charge of the digital transformation of the group.

He has gained a wealth of experience in the ICT and digital spheres at both a national and international level, working in multicultural contexts in more than 20 countries.

In his free time, Vahe loves reading, is particularly keen on DIY and cooking, and plays tennis.
